Shipping Officials, Government Heads Puzzled by Report

NO WORD HEARD
SINCE PECC CALLTwo Unidentified 'Subs'

Of Azores(By Associated Press)
NANTUCKET, Mass., Feb. 23.—Veiled in silence, the fate of a mysterious, unidentified vessel which sent a startling report that she had been torpedoed and was sinking about 200 miles south of the Azores, today perplexed shipping heads and government officials of two continents.

No word has been heard from the ship since Radio Marine corporation here intercepted an electrified SOS signed "PECC" yesterday, and the British steamer, Empress of Australia, reporting from the position given in the call for help, radioed she had sighted no sign of the ship or wreckage.

Mystery Deepens
The mystery deepened when the Portland radio station, England, reported that the British tanker Pecten had accepted a radio inquiry from the Associated Press at 4:23 a. m. EST, giving assurance that the tanker, believed for a time to have been the vessel which sent the SOS, still was afloat.

Owners of the British vessel, the Anglo-Saxon Petroleum company, said "there is every indication" the vessel which sent the SOS was not the Pecten. Spokesmen for the company said they had radioed the vessel for information, but added "we are not a bit anxious" pointing out the ship was 1,000 miles from the point where the call for help emanated.

They said the call letters used did not apply to British, but to foreign vessels.

The letter "C" in International code stands for ten, or Pecten. The Pecten was enroute from Trinidad to Southampton.

Spain's Premier?

Serrano Suner

Possible appointment by General Francisco Franco of his brother-in-law, Serrano Suner, Spanish insurgent minister of the interior, as the new premier of Spain, may bring about a closer tie between Spain and Italy and Germany. Suner is said to favor a close alliance between Spain and the Fascist countries.

Dr. Charles L. Smith, speaking on the life and family of George Washington, addressed members of Perry lodge No. 185, F. & A. M., Salem City lodge No. 698, F. & A. M., and guests at a joint Father and Son banquet in the Masonic temple Wednesday evening.

More than 175 attended the dinner and program which followed. Music during the dinner hour was furnished by the Hundertmark orchestra. Henry Yeagley acted as toastmaster.

Entertainment included: Drum novelty, Richard Daugherty; trumpet selections, Clair King, accompanied at the piano by Leo Holloway; accordion numbers, Virginia Polen.

Group singing, led by Charles W. Wolfe, was enjoyed, with piano accompaniment by Thomas Crothers.

The committees in charge were: Perry lodge, E. M. Jenkins, Roland Beck, and Henry Yeagley; Salem City, James F. Giffin, Sr., James Giffin, Jr., and Joseph Bryan.

Middleton Farmer
Succumbs at Home

EAST FAIRFIELD, Feb. 23.—George H. Miller, 75, prominent farmer, died at 8 a. m. today at his home on the Columbiana-Middleton rd., near Middleton, following a six weeks illness of complications.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Miller, he was born Oct. 12, 1863, in Bedford county, Pa. He was married to Anna C. Ewenwein on Oct. 16, 1888, in Pittsburgh. He was a member of the Columbiana Grace Reformed church.

Surviving are his wife and three daughters, Miss Anna Mary at home, Mrs. Clair Conkle of New Waterford and Mrs. Ray Baker of Columbiana; two sons, Harry E. near Middleton and Charles E. of Columbiana; two sisters, Mrs. Ellis Anna Mary Miller of De Land, Fla.; five brothers, John J. Miller and Ellsworth N. of Columbiana, Brice of Slippery Rock, Pa., William and Charles of Pittsburgh.

The body will be taken to the Fry funeral home from the residence at 11 a. m. Saturday. Funeral service will be conducted at 2 p. m. Saturday at the Fry funeral home in Columbiana in charge of Rev. W. R. Gobrecht. Burial will be in Columbiana cemetery.

Friends may call at the home any time.

GUAM PROJECT
NEARING VOTEArmy Air Corps May Be

WOODRING URGESAnother Recommendation
Is That Figure Be Set
At 6,000(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—While the house approached a vote on the controversial Guam naval project, two developments raised the possibility today that congress might expand the army air corps beyond the 5,500 planes authorized by the house.

1. The senate received from its military committee a unanimous recommendation that the army plane limit be raised to 6,000.

2. Chairman Sheppard (D. Tex.) of the committee made public a Feb. 3 letter from Secretary Woodring suggesting that no maximum be set on the number of aircraft the army would acquire.

Urges Removal of Limits
Woodring urged that all limits be removed so that if mass production of planes made possible the acquisition of a greater number without additional cost, the army could take advantage of the opportunity.

Senator Sheppard said the war department head appeared pleased by the senate committee's recommendation for an increase in the house figure.

Chairman May (D. Ky.) of the house military committee predicted his group would approve the increase, but there were indications of opposition from other members.

The senate committee, in favoring the air corps development, approved yesterday the army expansion measure constituting the bulk of the administration defense program. It voted to authorize $23,750,000 to strengthen Panama canal defenses and $34,500,000 to train private industry in munitions production.

This was $2,000,000 more than the sum approved by the house.

Fiercy debate over the $5,000,000 Guam project diverted attention of the house from the rest of the naval air base program. With scarcely any discussion, it tentatively approved 11 other projects in the bill yesterday. They included new air bases in Alaska, the mid-Pacific and Puerto Rico as well as expansions at existing domestic stations.

Critics Denounce Guam
Critics denounced the Guam development, however, as the first step toward complete fortification of the island and a measure likely to enhance the danger of war.YOUNG PEOPLE

At Wooster Baptist Meeting In Canton On Friday

Rev. S. Talmage Magann, pastor of the First Baptist church, will address young people of the Wooster Baptist association at their annual winter rally and frolic at the First Baptist church in Canton Friday night.

Rev. Magann is advisor for the Wooster association, which includes young people of churches at Alliance, Canton, Locust Grove, Massillon, Newman, New Philadelphia, Wooster and Salem.

A three-hour program, starting at 7:30, will be presented. The first half of the program will be given to fellowship, with each group taking part.

During the fellowship period, the Salem young people will present a play, "Good Morning, Parson," a short comedy picturing a blue, rainy Monday morning in the parson's home when many visitors come with their various complaints. The play will feature the following cast: Miss Mary Helen Brudery, Robert Bennett, Howard Bennett, Miss Irene Miller, Miss Dorothy Hinkley, Benny Brudery and Miss Betty Hinkley.

The play is under the direction of Mrs. Magann, wife of the pastor.

Rev. Magann's talk on the subject, "When Youth Marches for Christ," will be one of two addresses given during the last half of the program, which will be devoted to music and inspirational talks. The other address will be given by Walter Shafer, widely-known as a leader in Baptist young people's work in Ohio.

Vegetables; Windows Smashed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Pelted with eggs and overripe vegetables by a violent crowd of anti-Nazi demonstrators, 300 persons attended a meeting of the German-American Bund here last night at which Adolf Hitler was likened to George Washington.

Seven radio cars of police answered a riot call at the Deutsches Haus as boeing pickets outside smashed windows with rocks and drove uniformed bund members to cover from their guard stations.

One man, wearing Nazi insignia, was beaten. Another man was hit by a flying rock.

Once, during the meeting, which was delayed more than an hour by the demonstration, a catcalling wedge of pickets attempted to gain entrance through a side door, but was stopped by police.

The jeering anti-Nazis, about 100 in number, carried placards of the socialist workers party. Girls and youths were prominent in the picket line, which sang the "Internationale."

The bund meeting opened with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

David Hall, Jr., Glendale pamphlet publisher, delivered an address in which he described Washington as "a leader of a revolution who was like Hitler today." Herman Schwinn, western director of the bund, also spoke on the program, which contained criticism of President Roosevelt and a French war plane deal; Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau; Secretary of State Hull for "blocking German trade;" and Representative Martin of Colorado, who yesterday termed Nazi sympathizers traitors to the nation.

Crowd Into Capitol to File Protest(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Feb. 23.—The beauty operators almost upset the equilibrium of the Ohio legislature here last night.

More than 60 of them, from all over the state, descended upon the senate commerce and labor committee to urge passage of a bill which they said would be the "salvation" of their business.

Sen. William J. Zouli (D. Cuyahoga), "daddy" of the state cosmetology board established in 1933, is author of the bill.

Comparable To Style Show

The scene was comparable to a style show as the bald, robust senators, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced the beauty experts to the committee.

At least, it was tantamount to a hairdressers' show as the witnesses displayed coiffures in many variations to the committee.

Every chair was filled in the capitol's largest hearing room and members of the legislature were lined against the walls. Zouli said it was reported that house committees had difficulty getting quorums, so many representatives "strayed"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau told business men today they not only need not worry about new taxes but might hope for improvements in present taxes to help business.Expands on F. D. R. Statement
Expanding on and endorsing President Roosevelt's statement of last week that business men need fear no new taxes, the treasury head said:

"I sincerely hope that congress will take a careful look at the tax laws and see if there are any deterrents holding back business and business men from making further commitments."

"I think the business man ought to feel that the administration wants him to go ahead and take normal business risks and make money."

The secretary said definitely that no tax proposals except reenactment of expiring excise taxes and possibly a measure to raise approximately $200,000,000 for farm benefits, had been brought to his attention.

New Taxes Sidetracked

He indicated that even proposals for new taxes to pay for increased armaments have been sidetracked for fear of depressing business and he said it was "likely" that further defense spending would be financed by borrowing.

The administration's only hope at present for increased revenue, he asserted, was from stimulating business and business profits, thereby increasing the yield from present tax rates.

TIME FOR NEW
LICENSES NEARBlue and White Plates, Without The
"Covered Wagon," Will Go
On Sale March 1

Five thousand sets of blue and white 1939 Ohio automobile license plates, minus last year's covered wagon, will be placed on sale March 1 by deputy registrars in Salem.

Expected to bring $24,000 into the state treasury, a total of 2,900.

Cy Wallace, state registrar of motor vehicles, this afternoon announced the appointment of deputy registrars for Columbiana county.

They are: Albert P. Morris for Salem; E. S. Weaver, Columbiana; Sheldon J. Overdorf, county auditor-elect, Lisbon; A. E. Froesch and Fred Winland, East Liverpool; Arthur Hole, East Rochester; Mrs. Laura Beilhart, Leetonia; J. W. Raley, Rogers; Mrs. Avis Chamberlain, East Palestine; S. A. Hart, Salineville; James Scott, Wells-ville.

600 sets of plates will be distributed throughout the state.

They must be displayed on all cars by April 1 and may be carried after March 10, the local office of the Columbiana County Motor club pointed out. Appointment of a deputy registrar to succeed the late O. J. Asty has not yet been made.

The auto club urged its members today to get their license plate reservations in early.

The tags, made by Ohio penitentiary prisoners, are a little heavier this year than before. It is reported. Made of 24 gauge steel, they are one-third heavier than the 1938 edition which carried the northwest territory design.

Townsend to Hear
Alliance Speaker

A meeting of the Salem Townsend club will be held at 7:30 p. m. Friday in the Memorial building with the chief address by Rev. Allie Green of the Alliance tabernacle.

Rev. Green is a member of the advisory board of Alliance club No. 1. He will be accompanied by his tabernacle orchestra.

The meeting is open to the public.

Additional Jury
List Is Announced

The names of J. Alton Cornell and Mrs. Esther McAllister of Salem are included in the supplementary venire of five, drawn at Lisbon this morning for petit jury, beginning Monday.

Others include Karl Krug and Mrs. Lois McHenry of East Liverpool and Clyde Brittain of East Palestine.

MERCURY HITS
ZERO READINGClear Skies Expected To Pull Temperature Back
Up Today

Sunshine and clear skies today slowly pulled the mercury upward from a zero temperature recorded here this morning. The cold weather has prevailed over all of Ohio for the past two days.

Weather observers predicted the mercury would climb today to the lower twenties.

A reading of exactly zero was registered at the city disposal plant at 6 a. m. today by J. W. Mayhew, who said the mercury was nine above at midnight, dropped to five at 2:30 and remained there until shortly after 5 a. m.

It was exactly a week ago today that the disposal plant operators were amazed to find their instruments registering 17 below.

The tag end of the cold snap today brought the lowest readings for three years in at least three sections of the state. Bucyrus reported three below zero, the coldest there since 1936. Columbus and Toledo temperatures dipped to four above, a three-year low mark for both and the coldest Feb. 23 for Columbus since 1885. A four-above temperature also was reported at Akron.

At Cleveland, thermometers officially recorded nine above, within one degree of the season's low. Cincinnati also had a reading of nine above, with suburbs reporting temperatures ranging from four to six above. It was six above at Dayton. Ironton recorded seven above, and Bowling Green and Youngstown, three above.

Highways remained hazardous to traffic after Tuesday's four-inch snowfall.

30 Attend Meeting
Of Rural Carriers

Thirty were present at the Columbiana county rural letter carriers' coverdish supper Wednesday night in Willow Grove grange hall.

Talks were given by A. E. Beardmore, Salem postmaster, and Frank Yengling, who compared today's mail carrying with that of 20 years ago.

Also on the program were songs by Deborah and Priscilla Beery, instrumental music by Frank Yengling, a reading by Mrs. Leroy Beery, recitation by Janet Warrington, and piano solo by Janet Crawford.

The carriers will meet again in April.

Stark Jury Indicts
Two Lisbon Youths

Indictments charging robbery were returned by the Stark county grand jury at Canton yesterday against two Lisbon youths, Frank Leropoli and Clark E. Maruca, who were arrested by Salem state highway patrolmen for complicity in a series of holdups.

The pair were alleged to have robbed two gasoline stations in Stark county.

Three companions are under indictment by the Mahoning county grand jury on similar charges.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—A group of government economists forecast today that a further business uptrend would begin in April. After an improvement which carried the federal reserve board index of industrial production from 76 last May to 104 in December, factory paces have been unchanged since Christmas.

The economists who advise major federal departments viewed this recent leveling off as a necessary breath-taking pause. Production, they said, got ahead of consumption, but now the two appear nearly in balance, since retail trade has been holding up well.

Favorable Factors
Government spending, home building, and possible utility and railroad spending are among the factors which the economists named in predicting further uptrend.

One of the group said he expected the rise to continue generally throughout the year and to make possible a 1939 average of industrial

A SUCCESS

Everybody, including the policemen assigned to keep order, kept reasonably cool for the German-American band meeting in New York City Monday night.

No one was injured, a number of persons had a chance to blow off steam, there was a tremendous lot of milling about, and some gentlemen who don't like the way the United States is being run said so.

That wasn't startling in itself, or wouldn't have been if the gentlemen weren't committed to the proposition that the United States would be better off if Adolf Hitler's ideas prevailed here.

It was silly of them to hire a hall to say that, because they would have to admit, if questioned, that if Adolf Hitler's ideas did prevail here they couldn't have hired a hall to say anything against the government.

The fact they were using free speech to run down the kind of government which makes free speech possible took the sting out of their words. It demonstrated once more that free speech, far from being a fatal weapon in the hands of subversionists, is an excellent way for them to hang themselves in their own rope.

A REVOLUTIONARY POSITION

Sen. Taft has made his first speech in the senate. He was in favor of lopping off a few million dollars of spending in connection with TVA. It was a revolutionary position to take.

The very next day the senate, having heard the arguments for and against saving money at the expense of TVA, voted not to save any. Sen. Taft failed to carry his point.

The senate paid no attention to Sen. Taft's common sense proposition that "if the government is going to cut expenditures, it has got to stop paying out money and the surest way to stop paying out money is to stop appropriating it."

While it would be claiming too much to say Mr. Taft's maiden speech was a success when it had no effect, it is a matter of more than ordinary importance that he chose to make his debut as an orator on the subject of saving money. At least he can't be accused of being in a rut at the outset of his senatorial career.

His approach was so fresh, so revolutionary, that the senate simply couldn't understand it, apparently. His constituents hope the senator won't be discouraged by the rebuff.

... AND FURTHERMORE

The dandiest remarks never are thought of till it's too late. Take senatorial courtesy, for instance.

A few days ago the President and the two senators from Virginia were at each other hot and heavy over the senate's right to reject a presidential appointee who happened to be unacceptable to a senator. No one thought to say anything then about what happened when the senatorial courtesy was on the other foot.

Mr. Roosevelt had named Sen. Hugo L. Black of Alabama to the Supreme Court of the United States. Senatorial courtesy obliged senators to confirm the appointment of a fellow member to the court.

The Black appointment was confirmed. A storm broke over the new justice's former connection with the Ku Klux Klan. It looked as though the President had relied on senatorial courtesy to confirm an appointment which wouldn't have had a chance in 10 under any other circumstances.

The record does not reveal that Mr. Roosevelt criticized the senate on that occasion for putting one of its unwritten rules ahead of an appointee's qualification.

TWO-WAY SQUEEZE

From Gibraltar to Hong Kong is two-thirds of the distance around the world. It is the area of influence covered by the British navy.

In the region of Gibraltar, affairs currently are reaching another crisis, with a greater crisis in sight if Italy pushes Britain too far.

In the region of Hong Kong, key to British contact with China, there also is a minor crisis, with a greater one looming if the Japanese go too far.

At Gibraltar it is the Italian government backed up by Germany with which Britain must deal "realistically." At Hong Kong Japanese bombers have dropped their cargoes for the first time on British property.

No one in a position to speak knows how close a relationship exists between Italy and Germany in Europe and Japan in Asia. They are bound together in a pact against communism, but whether they also act in unison to bedevil other governments is still a question.

An answer must be sought in the evidence. There has been no crisis affecting Japan, Italy, or Germany which has not been complicated by an overt show of aggression by one or both of the three countries. The bombing of Hong Kong at a time when Great Britain is threatening to use its navy to restrain Italy's greed for more power in the Mediterranean looks like more than an accident of timing.

THE STARS SAY:

For Friday, February 24.

A day of unusual, intriguing and probably drastic and exciting events is the augury based on an interesting chain of planetary aspects. It is a time for forging ahead to high goals, with much initiative, originality and ingenuity. This may involve some radical departures in plans, ways and means, or even in environment. Rather usual or curious angles may crop up, but all should succeed, giving much gratification, but restraint, discretion and vigilance are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of rather unusual adventures. There may be sudden and drastic action, as well as temptation to rash, intemperate and violent behavior. These should be held in check; also there should be precaution and alertness to pitfalls and snares. Elders and superiors may be friendly disposed and ready to assist in promotion of sound plans.

A child born on this day may be eager, energetic, ambitious and well-equipped for reaching desired objectives.

A LENTEN THOUGHT

By REV. S. TALMAGE MAGANN.

President, Salem Ministerial Association.

"BEHOLD THE MAN!"

Read John 19:1-5. Since Jesus is "the way," one is naturally interested in getting well acquainted with Him. In our scripture today He has been carefully examined before Pilate, who concludes, "I find no fault in Him . . . Behold the man!"

Pilate could not have paid Jesus a higher compliment. The whole world admires a man. Some measure the concept man in terms of long trousers, a pipe, a wife and family or perhaps in other terms unsuitable for public print. However, in the panorama of life one can find many human creatures wearing long bifurcated nether garments, possessing pipe, wife and children; but in the full sense of the word they have never realized the happy experience of being a man.

Jesus possessed all of the true virtues of a manly man. His many long journeys on foot reveal the fact that He had a strong body. His frequent references to the birds, flowers, seed time and harvest reveal the fact that He was an outdoor man and real lover of nature.

His attitude toward His disciples necessitated patience. His readiness to forgive His enemies showed His broadmindedness. His never failing devotion to the will of God revealed His loyalty. His courage in the face of hard and dangerous circumstances revealed His fearlessness. His acceptance of the cross revealed His abundant love for all mankind.

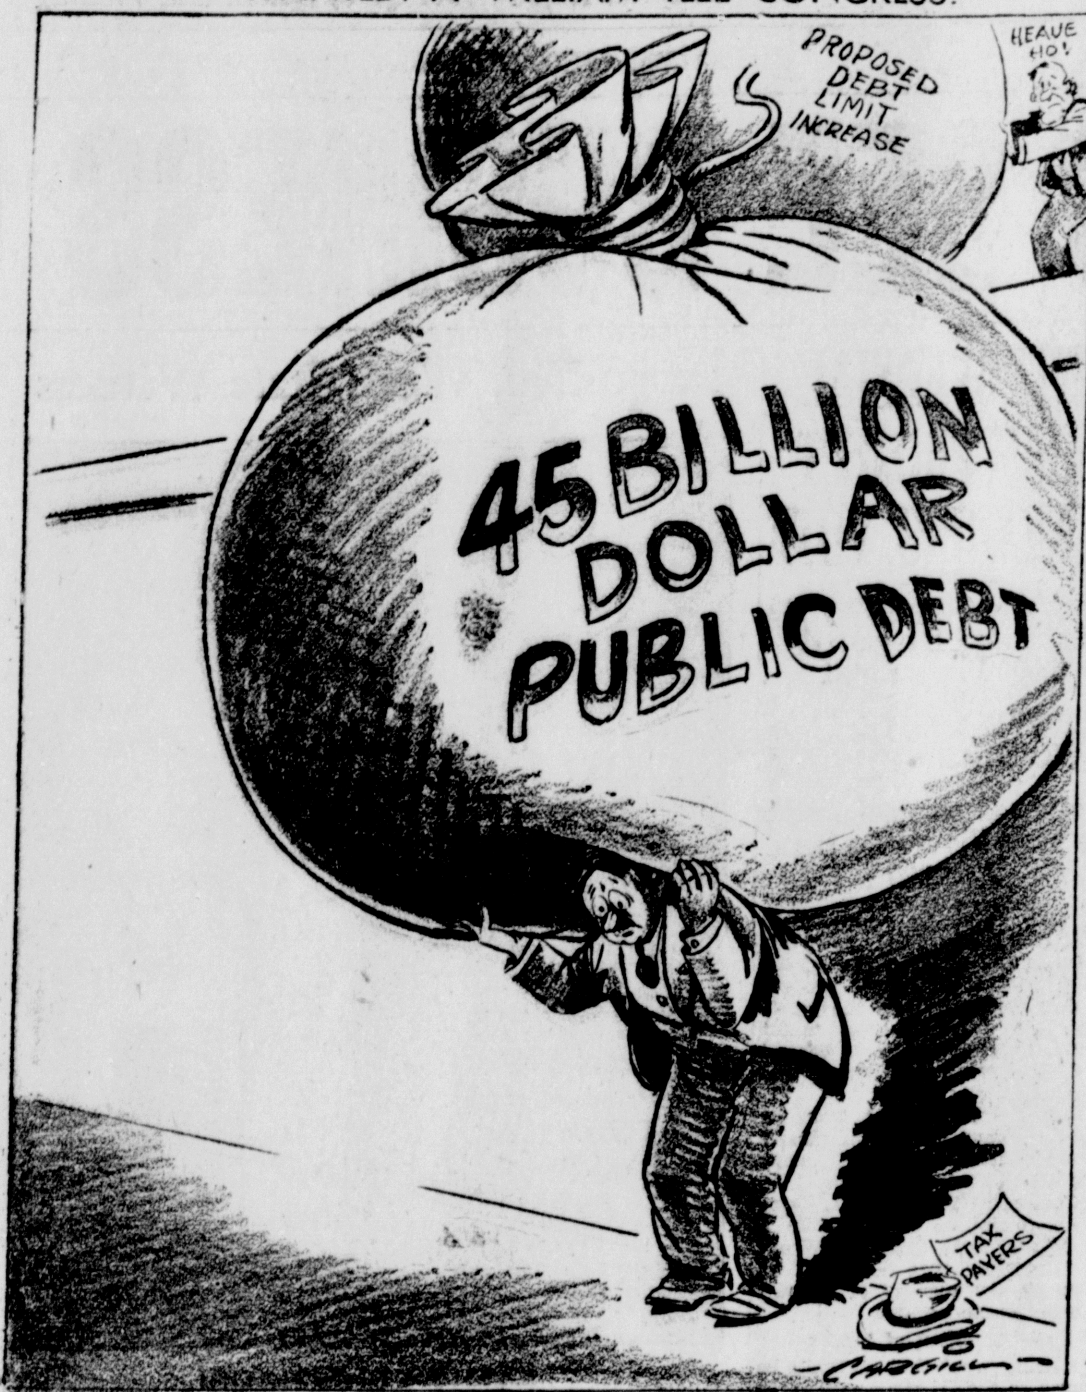

Prayer: We all admire the noble, manly qualities of Jesus. Help us, O God, to remember that we, too, can possess them through Thy grace and never failing love. Amen.

The finest argument the dictators have against democracy has been provided by the New Deal, which set out "to make democracy work." The fact that after six years of the New Deal, approximately 10,000,000 people are still out of work in the greatest of all democracies really gives the dictators something to work on.

An archeologist has found that high civilization about 4000 B. C. became somewhat decadent 2,000 years later. That must have been about the time the older folk began to worry about the younger generation.

The 100 hunting dogs which attended a banquet in Detroit are said to have been better behaved than the usual run of banqueters. They didn't draw pictures on the tablecloth.

Balanced Rest, Exercise Needed in Heart Ailments

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

When one has been told that he has heart disease—either high blood pressure with consequent heart complications, or an attack of heart pang (angina)—or when a heart murmur meaning valvular disease is discovered in a young person, the decision has to be made as to how to balance, in the future, rest and exercise.

In any discussion of the subject, you hear over and over again the statement made in the most authoritative tones, "The one absolutely essential element in treatment of heart disease, the one sheet anchor of success in its management, is rest." And then, in the next breath, the great authority begins to sing the praises of exercise in heart disease.

Must Be Balanced. It sounds contradictory, but, as a matter of fact, it is not necessarily so, because the two things must be balanced. The publicity given the sudden death of some prominent citizen while carrying out any particular effort, such as golf, horseback riding or public speaking, accentuates the belief in the harm of exercise in heart disease. But as my friend, Dr. Louis F. Bishop, Jr. of New York, points out, there is no special emphasis put on the occurrence when a man with heart disease dies in bed, where most of them do.

It is well recognized that the aged ill should not be kept in bed, but it has not been sufficiently appreciated that the middle-aged with impaired circulation can also be harmed by too prolonged bed rest. Two groups of patients with heart disease need especially-planned exercise. It is manifestly impossible to limit very much the young person who has been found to have a heart murmur following an attack of inflammatory rheumatism. A boy of 12 is going to play baseball, and when he hits the ball he is going to run to first base as hard as he can, and forget—God bless him!—all about his murmur. And that is what he should do. Exercise is just as good for the heart muscle as for any other muscle in the body. Exercise in such a patient never causes sudden accident. It is good for him and prolongs life.

Two Classes

The two classes of patients in which exercise must be carefully supervised are those who, after an attack of angina or coronary thrombosis, have had a period of rest and now need to be rehabilitated, and, second, those with high blood pressure and some of its complications.

In the first group, graduated exercises can be begun in bed first with massage, passive movements and respiratory exercises, and following that the resistant exercises of the brothers Schott. The Certe method of exercise consists of graded walks carried out to the point where any symptoms such as breathlessness occur. Beginning on a horizontal level, the walks are increased gradually with regard to distance and incline.

For ambulatory patients with high blood pressure, it is difficult to gauge the amount of exercise for which the heart muscle has capacity. Games with intermittent action are obviously preferable—such as croquet, lawn bowls and archery. Golf often falls under the head of intermittent but sometimes of continuous exercise.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

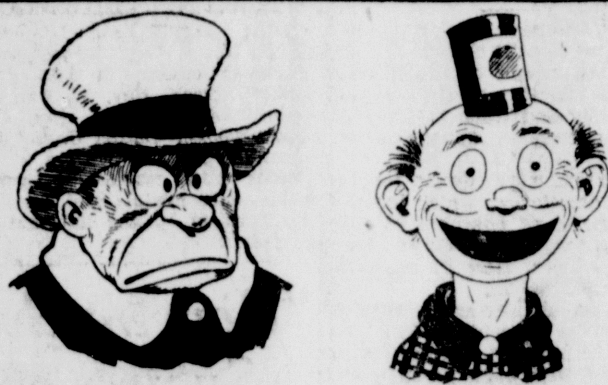

A. R. E.: "For the past several days I have had a sweet taste in my mouth and I have not eaten anything sweet for three months. What have you to say about this?"

Answer: It is probably due to fermentation. The salivary juice is capable of turning ordinary starch into sugar, and perhaps some bread or cracker particles are fermenting.

J. S.: "Please tell me what foods contain Vitamin A."

Answer: Artichokes, bananas, carrots, string beans, broccoli, brussels sprouts, butter, cantaloupes, American cheese, cream cheese, dates, eggs, kidney, romaine lettuce, liver, whole milk, dried green peas, peppers, sweet potatoes, prunes, raw and canned spinach, raw and canned tomatoes.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Seven pamphlets by Dr. Clending can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp, to Dr. Logan Clending, 235 W. 45th St., New York City. The pamphlets are: "Three Weeks' Reducing Diet," "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

HELP
15 MILES OF
KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste. Frequent or scanty passages with burning and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

"ENVOY EXTRAORDINARY"

by E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM

CHAPTER XXI

Mattresser continued to address Elisabeth: "I am too fond of you. I shall let you go your own way, but when I judge the time has come for me to talk to you seriously again I shall do it. I can see you are dying to get home."

"Do you mind?" she pleaded. "It is all so difficult."

"Come along," he invited. "Mrs. Jewells telephoned for a car directly we got here."

She rose promptly to her feet as he touched the bell.

"It has been such a lovely afternoon," she said as she bade farewell to Mrs. Jewells. "And you," she added a moment or two later to her host, "let me thank you, too—very much."

"It is marvelous to have someone like you and a mansion and great estates and to be an English nobleman, but when I see these things and I look across, only as far as Vienna but through all our beautiful country, you really think I could settle down here and be happy and forgetful?"

He held her hand quite tightly in his for the first few moments of her homeward drive. For a man who knew so little of her sex he was very wise indeed. He exercised the gift of silence.

They discovered a certain amount of agitation among the household when they reached home. Mattresser was begged to go at once to his mother's boudoir. She welcomed him eagerly.

"My dear Ronald," she confided, "until you rang up and we knew your whereabouts we were in great distress. A telephone message came at four o'clock from Sandringham. A certain gentleman from Downing Street—they were very mysterious—was leaving this evening and he wished to know if it would be convenient for him to dine and spend the night here on his way back."

Mattresser whistled softly to himself.

"Of course you said yes."

"My dear boy," his mother remonstrated, "for a cabinet minister of such distinction we have opened up the Bishop's suite in the west wing and I told Mrs. Jones, the must have been a young soldier back to barracks. They can come over and dine any night they like after tomorrow. From the way the message was sent I am quite sure the man is meant to be a private one, although I cannot imagine why."

"Right as usual, my wonderful mother," Mattresser declared. "I am going into the library to study contemporary politics in The Times. What on earth can I find to talk about with a leading statesman?"

"For once, my dear," his mother said to him, with a mysterious light in her keen eyes, "you will have to break through that reserve of yours and talk about your travels."

The Right Honorable Sir Francis Tring, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, proved himself a very popular guest during his flying visit to the Great House.

"I hope you understand, Lady Mattresser," he explained, "that I had no idea whatever of interfering with any house party you might have been giving. We politicians have a very censorious press criticizing our every move and we are passing through rather troublesome times. This is such a well-known country house for gay parties and wonderful sport that my visit here, when things are a little critical in London, might have seemed crass."

"I am sure we all quite understand that," she assented.

"I did want just a few words with your son," Tring continued. "He has helped us before, you know, and I value his judgment."

Lady Mattresser was not a woman who usually showed her emotions, but she was certainly surprised.

"I am delighted to hear you say so, Sir Francis. To tell you the truth I never imagined that Ronald's travels were of any interest to anybody except to the Royal Geographical Society and his sporting friends. By the way, my son-in-law, Stephen Hennerley, is our only other guest, and you know how I think of him."

"Of course I do," Sir Francis assented. "He belongs to our party and is a very useful member of Parliament. There was a young lady—a foreigner, I believe—whom I thought very attractive. I only saw her for a moment."

"Mademoiselle Stamier is a charming girl and very much admired. She is my daughter's companion."

"Is she by any chance of Austrian nationality?" Sir Francis inquired.

"She is a niece of the Austrian minister," Lady Mattresser confided. "Austria will be one of our problems. I fear, for years to come."

Sir Francis observed, "I think most English people have the warmest feelings of friendship toward her and we never seem to be in a position to be able to translate our good will into practical help."

Dinner was announced and the guests came to an end. Sir Francis, who had the look of a harassed man, talked courteously but at no great length to his hostess and exchanged only a few remarks with Elisabeth who sat on the other side.

"You are going to join in one of these wonderful shooting parties," Sir Francis' the latter inquired.

"My dear young lady," he told her, "I have not touched a gun for years. I have just called on my way back to town to have a few words with your host."

"With Lord Mattresser?" she asked in surprise.

"We look upon Mattresser," he went on, "as one of our unofficial ambassadors. He seems to have a special gift for dealing with some of these troublesome people in far-away countries. Within my memory we have three times asked for his advice. In each case, if we had followed it literally, we should have been better off."

Elisabeth was curiously interested.

"But are they countries which interest you?" she ventured.

"Every square yard of land where the Union Jack has once been raised," he declared with mock grandiloquence, "is of interest."

"That sounds terribly like the hustings," Hennerley observed with a smile. "I could imagine our local patriot, balanced upon a tub at Fakenham Market, getting off a squib of that description."

"It would perhaps be better for the country," Sir Francis remarked dryly, "if there were a little more of that sort of talk abroad."

"May I say good-bye to you now, Lady Mattresser," he begged. "I know you will forgive my apparent breach of manners but I must be in London early in the morning so I have ventured to order my car for an unheard-of hour. Your son and I are going to have a talk in his den if you will excuse us."

She shook hands with a somewhat mystified smile.

"We are sorry to see so little of you, Sir Francis," she said, "but I am delighted to think that Ronald is likely to be of some use to you."

Arrived in Mattresser's den, Sir Francis lit a cigar and Mattresser his pipe. Burrows himself brought up their coffee and brandy and received his final instructions with regard to the early departure of this important guest.

"I am delighted to see you here, of course, sir," Mattresser said as soon as they had settled down, "but isn't it rather a breach of our arrangement?"

"It had to be," Sir Francis acknowledged grimly. "I don't know whether you quite realize what has happened. I sent an important message down to you by one of our most reliable men in the Foreign Office—Philip Fergus. You know him, of course. I wrote you about that last report of yours, asking you some questions and especially for some information about a spot we are rather interested in just now. The fellow was first of all assaulted between Fakenham and Cleary and afterwards deliberately and brutally murdered. Something must have leaked out about your travels, Mattresser. Who is there down here likely to be playing the spy?"

"I wish I knew," Mattresser rejoined. "I am pretty well surrounded by my own people."

"Then your own people will have to be put on the grill. The letter which Fergus was bringing you and which apparently you have never received, would seem perfectly harmless to any ordinary person, but to anyone who could read between the lines it would give away the whole bag of tricks. We have had to go further in this matter than we have ever gone before."

"What exactly do you mean by that?" Mattresser asked Sir Francis.

"I mean that we are sending Finch down here tomorrow," the minister went on. "He is third in command at Scotland Yard but he was at MITB during the war and he is pretty clever at this sort of business. Marlow is coming with him to see that the criminal side of the matter is kept within bounds. Before they get to work, Mattresser, as man to man, and I can assure you a great deal depends upon your reply, are you shielding anyone or partially shielding them? Have you no suspicion whatever as to who it was who first assaulted and then murdered Fergus and is in possession of the letter addressed to you, fortunately in very vague terms but definitely inviting you to take part in our pending conference?"

"I can assure you that I have no idea," Mattresser declared earnestly. "The only strangers in these parts are a Dutchman called Van Westreene, who brought his boat in here the night of the great storm and who has been up to shoot with me once and dine, a great sportsman but a disagreeable fellow. Then, besides him, the only persons who do not absolutely belong here are my mother's maid, who I have satisfied myself is entirely harmless, and my sister's companion, Mademoiselle Stamier, whom you sat next at dinner and who I think I told you is a niece of the Austrian Minister."

"We will leave the young lady out of it for the moment," the Foreign Minister declared. "I have some slight acquaintance with Mademoiselle Stamier and she is scarcely likely to work against her sympathies. Van Westreene is a Dutchman, you say. I will have him looked up directly I get back."

"Would you like to see the doctor in whose house the final tragedy happened?"

"How long has he been in the place?"

"He was born here and his father before him. He is what he calls himself—a real piece of Norfolk clay. He used to be ashamed of the fact but now he rather brags about it. He has never been outside England in his life. He has not even crossed the Channel."

Interesting Programs Mark Methodist Circle Meetings

The quarterly birthday dinner of Circle 1 of the Methodist church took the form of a covered-dish dinner at noon yesterday at the home of Mrs. R. F. White on Tenth st.

Miss Zillah Stamp, Mrs. Buritt Leeper and Mrs. Charles Rheuban were associate hostesses.

Miss Ella Stamp, was leader of the devotional service.

Following the business session a social hour was enjoyed with a question and answer program in charge of Mrs. White.

The table for the dinner was attractive with decorations appropriate to Washington's birthday.

The next meeting will be March 22, the place to be announced.

Circle 2
Mrs. Cyrus Miser, Mrs. N. L. Seich and Mrs. J. D. Primm were guests of Circle 2 members at their quarterly birthday dinner at the home of Mrs. Irving M. Hall on East Third st., Wednesday afternoon.

The attractive table was decorated in red, white and blue with a large birthday cake as centerpiece. Other decorations in the home were in the patriotic colors.

Associate hostesses were Mrs. O. E. McInerney, Mrs. R. L. Smith and Mrs. J. W. Hanna.

A quotation by Washington was used to open the program. A devotional hour was led by Mrs. F. J. Stoudt. Roll call response was a Washington or Lincoln quotation.

Mrs. Paul Holwick, North Lincoln ave., will be hostess at the meeting March 22 at her home.

Circle 3
Mrs. D. C. McDevitt was welcomed as a new member of Circle 3 which met yesterday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Phil Chancellor, East State st.

Twenty-three members attended, enjoying a program of readings, given by Mrs. C. B. Hunt and Mrs. Chancellor.

Mrs. Frank Ballantine was in charge of devotions.

Circle 4
The committee in charge, Mrs. Chaney, Mrs. John Grove, Mrs. L. E. Allen, Mrs. F. R. Koenreich and Mrs. F. M. Peters served lunch after the business session.

The circle will have a covered-dish dinner March 22 in the church.

Circle 5
Mrs. E. M. Day, Franklin st., was hostess to associates of Circle 5 at her home yesterday. Mrs. Elaine Mackay assisted her in entertaining.

Mrs. William Stewart was devotional leader.

Following the regular business session, lunch was served.

The group will meet again March 22 at the home of Mrs. Carl Asmus, South Lincoln ave.

Circle 6
Mrs. John Gallagher was in charge of the devotional service which opened the meeting of Circle 6 in the Methodist church yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. G. M. Gilbert was chairman of the program, which was followed by lunch served by Mrs. A. B. Combs and her committee.

Plans were made to serve the dinner for the Methodist Men's club in the church Tuesday evening.

Conversations were enjoyed during the social hour.

The circle will hold its quarterly birthday dinner March 22 in the church.

Book Club Members at District Meeting
Several members of the Salem Book club, including Mrs. W. D. Kins, president, and Mrs. A. I. Getz, secretary, attended a meeting of the Northeast district of the Ohio Federation of Women's clubs in Youngstown yesterday afternoon. Approximately 700 club women were present.

Outstanding guests at the meeting and colonial tea which followed in the Christian church were Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar of Washington, D. C., president of the national federation; Mrs. C. L. Newcomer of Bryan, president of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. E. B. Padgett of Gallion, state parliamentarian; and Mrs. C. J. Goldthorpe of Youngstown, president of the northeast district.

Mrs. Dunbar, national head, was the principal speaker, while Mrs. Goldthorpe, district president, was in charge of the meeting. They, with the other state and district officers present, were in the receiving line at the tea.

Hostesses and musicians were gowned in attractive colonial costumes. The tea tables were charmingly appointed.

Others from Salem at the meeting included Mrs. Vaughn Yates, Mrs. J. R. Stratton and Mrs. Ada Hawkins.

Party Announces Engagement
Miss Effie Jones of Alliance, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Murray Jones of Damascus, entertained 10 girls at a supper party last evening at her apartment, 921 South Linden ave. Alliance.

At that time she announced her engagement to Clarence Borton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Borton of Sebring. The wedding will be an event of April 4.

Miss Jones is a graduate of Goshen Township High school and the pharmacy college of Ohio State university. She is employed as pharmacist by the Turner Drug Co., Alliance.

Mr. Borton is employed at the Strong Enamel factory in Alliance. Appointments for the supper party were in blue and white. Announcements were in the form of prescriptions at each place.

Honor Birthdays of Presidents
Readings on Lincoln and Washington, whose birthdays were celebrated by the Daughters of Union Veterans at a meeting in the K. of P. hall last night, were presented by Mrs. O. C. Juergens and Mrs. Harry Robinson.

Mrs. Wallace Stewart gave an additional reading.

Miss Ruth Warrick, president of the tent, was in charge of the meeting.

The gift package was given to Mrs. F. J. Harding.

Teachers of the primary and beginners departments of the Presbyterian church will entertain the children and their mothers at a party at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the chapel. All the children of the two groups and their mothers are invited to attend.

Senate Committee Passes Court Bill
COLUMBUS, Feb. 23.—The judiciary committee of the Ohio senate last night recommended for passage a bill which would give the City of East Liverpool the costs which its municipal court assesses in state cases.

The fines would have to be paid to the county which now receives the costs also.

The committee deferred action on a bill to expand the powers of the Steubenville municipal court. Chairman Grant P. Ward said the measure was so broad in scope that the committee members wished to give it a thorough study.

Sen. Roy N. Merryman (R., Jefferson) is author of both bills.

"BOY!... THIS TEA SURE HITS THE SPOT!"

NEVER TASTED TEA SO SMOOTH AND FLAVORY! MAKES ME FEEL LIKE A NEW MAN. LET'S HAVE LIPTON'S FROM NOW ON!

WHY NOT! EVEN TEA AS GRAND AS LIPTON'S COSTS LESS THAN ANYTHING ELSE YOU DRINK, EXCEPT WATER!

FINER TEA—that was Sir Thomas Lipton's gift to the tea-lovers of seven nations. Today—no other tea is as popular as Lipton's. Here are the reasons:

1. WORLD-FAMOUS FLAVOR—smooth, full, rich, delicious.
2. TENDER YOUNG LEAVES—and luscious flavorful buds give extra fragrance and bouquet.
3. SUPER BLEND—that doesn't vary—praised by professional tea experts.
4. ECONOMICAL—so rich in flavor takes less tea per cup.

QUAKER CAGERS COMPLETE SCHEDULE FRIDAY

2 LOCAL TEAMS WIN GAMES AT MEMORIAL GYM

Althouse Cagers Spank Youngstown Quintet, 33 to 21

Two Salem teams came through with victories in inter-city basketball games at the Memorial building last night.

The Althouse Motors, first half champion of the city's Class A league, trimmed the Youngstown West Side Merchants, 33 to 21, in the feature game of the Washington's birthday double-bill, while the Park A. C. trounced the Struthers Brown Bombers, 32 to 26, in the preliminary engagement.

Led in scoring by Bob Jeffries, John Trombitas and Sammy Drakulich, the Motors enjoyed easy sailing in stopping the West Side Merchants, one of the Steel City's leading Class A teams.

The Althouse quintet moved four points out in front in the first quarter and increased its advantage to 16 points in the second period when the Youngstown team was held to a single marker. The Motors led 21 to 5 at halftime.

Increase Lead Again

Again in the third quarter, the Motors held the Merchants to one point to increase their lead to 25 to 6.

The Park A. C. had it just as easy as the Motors in rolling to their win over the Struthers colored team. The Salem cagers pulled away to a 10-point lead in the first quarter and maintained this advantage in the second period to lead 20 to 10 at halftime. The Bombers cut the Park team's lead in the third and fourth quarters, but never threatened to go out in front.

Ed Zilavay caged five field goals and a pair of free throws to lead the scoring with 12 points.

CIENCIA WINS ANITA DERBY

Filly Surprises by Coming In Five Lengths In Front

BY ROBERT MYERS

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23. — The name of a great little filly, Ciencia, took its place in the hall of Santa Anita derby champions today, the first of her sex to be so honored.

As turf followers began looking ahead to the running of the $10,000 Santa Anita handicap Saturday, and the big race of the meeting, the following week, the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap, the trainers and horse experts picked up the pieces left in the wake of the flying hooves of this impudent filly.

Ciencia was the $50,000 added race yesterday by five lengths. Mrs. Bessie Franzheim's Xalapa Clown was second and Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Impound was third in a photo finish with W. E. Boeling's highly favored Porter's Mite.

No Excuses

The Clown, Impound, Porter's Mite and the rest of the field of 14 had no excuses. Ciencia, ably ridden by Jockey Carroll Bierman, virtually ran them off the track as 50,000 awed spectators looked on.

Victory to the winner, owned by Richard Kleberg, was worth $41,850; Xalapa Clown won $10,000; Impound $5,000 and Porter's Mite $2,500.

Ciencia is no Stagehand, but she'll do until another winner of the Santa Anita Derby comes along in 1940.

Twenty-six candidates were named for the Santa Anita handicap this Saturday, with Seabiscuit still a doubtful quantity.

EL CENTRO, Calif. — Hopes of the police to have a chance at last to "shoot it out" with a real bandit were shattered here. A telephone call had advised them that an armed bandit was sitting in a parked motor car. Police rushed to the scene and found a small boy with a cap pistol sitting in someone's automobile.

BOWLING RESULTS

Three new records were established in the Pastime league at the Grate Recreation alleys last night as the Columbiana Firestones took over sole possession of first place by winning three high-scoring games over the Trotter Coals.

The Citizen's Ice & Coal Keglers, who were formerly tied with the Columbiana team, fell to second place when they were held to two wins by the Loudon V-8's.

The Firestones set two new team records with a 959 single game and a 2765 series, while one of their bowlers, Pat Patterson, hung up a new individual three-game record with 685. Patterson's fine score included games of 205, 227 and 253.

Other Matches

In other Pastime matches, Tyson's West End Service won two out of three games with the Stillicious Chocolate Milks to remain in third place; Jr. C. of C. No. 2 took two out of three from Jr. C. of C. No. 3; the Washingtonville Odd Fellows posted three wins over Bosser's and the Jr. C. of C. No. 1 copped three victories over Roberts on a forfeit.

The leading Elks team of the Masonic Ladies league was handed two set-backs at the Masonic temple alleys last night, but the defeats did not drop the Elks from the top position. Mullins Office ladies gained the two wins over the league leader.

Other ladies matches gave Wark's three wins over the Bankerettes, Kresge's two wins over the Electric Furnace and the Ohio Edison a pair of victories of the Salem News.

All That Remains of New York's Old Postoffice

At first glance, you might take this picture Roman ruins. But the ruins are those of New York's old postoffice at city hall, being wrecked to make way for an enlargement of City Hall Park. Huge new structures elsewhere in the city had taken over duties of the old building some years ago.

SET QUOTA FOR POULTRY RALLY

1,979 Members Is Figure Established for Columbiana County

A drive to meet Columbiana county's quota of 1,979 members for the seventh world's poultry congress and exposition, which will be held in Cleveland from July 28 to Aug. 7, has been launched by county poultrymen and consumers under the direction of Farm Agent Floyd Lower of Lisbon.

The congress is being financed by the sale of exhibit space and the advance sale of memberships. Quotas were determined on the basis of population, size of the poultry industry and distance from Cleveland.

Committees have been organized in the county to handle the sale of memberships and to arrange tours and other matters in connection with the congress.

Heads Consumers' Committee
The county consumers' committee is headed by Mrs. Elizabeth Beatty of Salem. This group is undertaking an extensive program in contacting consumers.

Plans are being developed for one of the post-congress tours to Pittsburgh to pass through Salem and East Liverpool.

The sale of memberships in the county is already under way and more than 600 have been sold to date. The membership ticket entitles its owner to attend the congress 11 days with no additional expense.

Memberships may be purchased in Salem from W. L. Hart, vice-president of the Farmers' National bank, who is treasurer of the county committee, and Mrs. Elizabeth Baker at the Salem Business Bureau.

Cleveland's Public auditorium will be the hall of meetings for the 11-day congress. Located at the center of a group of buildings which will house the world's largest industrial exposition, the auditorium will accommodate the scientific and sectional meetings of the World's Poultry Science association.

World Wide Attendance
These meetings, at which English, French, Spanish and German will be official languages, will attract poultry scientists from every corner of the world.

Official delegations from at least 60 foreign nations will have headquarters in the auditorium where a continuous and interlocking schedule of meetings, dealing with every phase of the poultry industry, will be held.

The meetings will be for the poultry raisers, dealing with poultry culture and marketing; the processors; the handlers and marketers; and the consumers with demonstrations illustrating new and economical ways of preparing poultry for consumption.

More than 500,000 persons interested in the poultry industry are expected to attend the congress.

Rubber City Honors Charley Goodyear

AKRON, Feb. 23.—This city pays tribute today to the memory of the man who inadvertently dropped a batch of crude rubber and sulphur on a hot stove and laid the foundation for the rubber industry.

The man was Charles Goodyear, and the discovery of vulcanization was 100 years ago.

A bronze statue of Goodyear, central figure in Akron's new mall directly across from City Hall, was dedicated and a banquet was arranged in the Akron Armory, with Gov. John W. Bricker one of the speakers.

The statue is the gift of Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., which took the name of the inventor 40 years ago when F. A. and C. W. Seiberling opened their first rubber plant in an old strawboard factory here. Presidents of 122 Ohio Rubber companies were invited to attend the banquet.

Receive Frisco Stamps
Local philatelists are receiving first-day covers from the San Francisco world's fair, bearing the new three-cent stamp which commemorates the opening day of the Golden Gate exposition.

The central design of the purple-colored stamp is a reproduction of the "Tower of the Sun," one of the outstanding architectural features of the fair on Treasure Island in San Francisco bay. The tower is 400 feet high and inside it is a 44-bell carillon. Atop the tower is a 5,000-pound golden phoenix representing the rise of the city from the ashes of the 1906 fire.

Sad Farewell

Paderewski Returning to New Acclaim in U. S., Barred by Native Land

Ignace Jan Paderewski

NEW YORK—Returning to America for probably the greatest acclaim in all his 78 years, Ignace Jan Paderewski, known as the world's foremost pianist, nevertheless begins his "last farewell" tour belauded in sadness. His native Poland, to which he gave years and fortune, has snubbed his offer to end his exile. Thus the man who led in organizing the Polish republic in 1918-19 and who was its premier in 1919, who represented it at the Peace Conference, and who is the most famous Pole alive, is barred from his homeland, from which he departed 15 years ago in self-imposed exile.

Paderewski will repair his fortunes in America, for he is to give 23 concerts. He will also give a radio concert. This is his 19th American tour in 48 years.

He will, as usual, travel in a private Pullman, in which there will be an upright piano for his practice, which he has not missed during his nearly three-quarters of a century. He will have two other pianos on tour—each shipped alternately ahead of him.

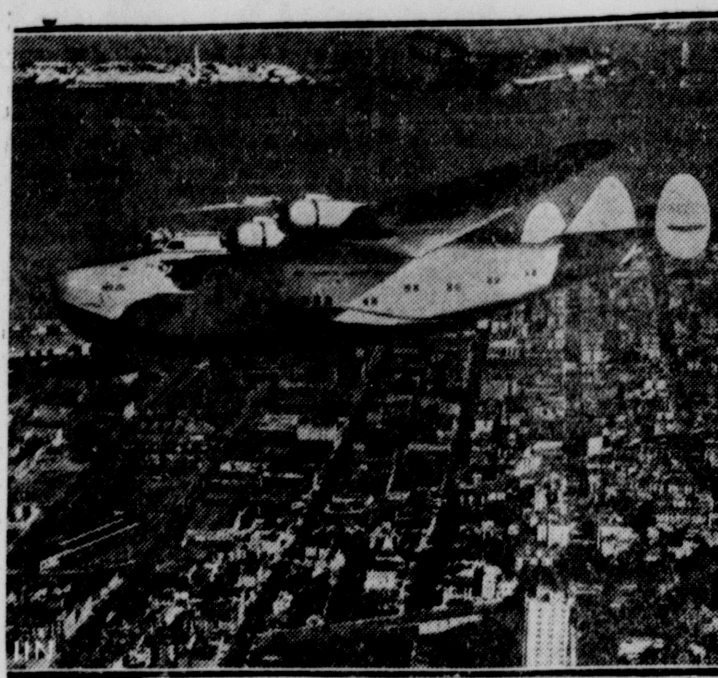

Even the United States government added to Paderewski's discomfort. For, prior to his arrival, it insisted upon settlement of an old income tax claim and penalties dating from 1932.

Paderewski was seen last in America in an English movie. That was last year. The maestro moved with majestic ease through the picture, although he had aged greatly since last seen in the flesh here.

But his magic with the keys seemed to be as potent as ever.

Theatre Attractions

The screen play of the famous novel, "The Three Musketeers" continues at the State tonight, Friday and Saturday, with Don Ameche, as the singing and fighting D'Artagnan and the Ritz brothers as three phony musketeers.

Rising songs, including "Song of the Musketeers", "My Lady" and "Voila", add to the excitement of D'Artagnan's stirring fight to save a throne—all the while he's double-deep in Ritzes!

The story opens with the appearance of the bona fide Athos, Porthos and Aramis at the Ritzes' tavern. A riotous drinking bout toasting all the French monarchs from Louis I to Louis XIII results in the Musketeers winding up under the table and the Ritzes, captivated by the dashing uniforms, donning their costumes.

Meets The Ritzes
Enter D'Artagnan! The fiery Gascon's hot temper had led him to challenge Athos, Porthos and Aramis, each and all, to a duel. He finds the Ritzes keeping the appointment.

Just then the cardinal's guards arrive, posting an edict that anyone found masquerading in musketeer uniforms will be hanged. D'Artagnan, with the antagonism of a musketeer for the guards, draws his flashing blade and the battle is on—with the Ritzes, carrying on their assumed roles through necessity, appearing as if they'd be more at home with a carving knife than a sword.

Besting the guards, the quartet escapes, and D'Artagnan makes the three phony musketeers his friends for life, further insisting that they accompany him on a dangerous mission to get the queen's emerald brooch in time for the great palace ball. They must obtain the brooch, which the queen has given to the Duke of Buckingham, in order to forestall an intrigue aimed at the royal court.

Their Captured
After a series of adventures, they obtain the jewel—but are captured by the cardinal's guards. Here is where the Ritzes really go to work, and the story of how D'Artagnan and his comrades escape, return to Paris, enter the palace and return the queen's gift is one of the most exciting, and at the same time hilarious, episodes.

In addition to Don Ameche and the Ritz Brothers, the cast includes

Don Ameche as the dashing D'Artagnan in "The Three Musketeers" at the State tonight, Friday and Saturday such popular favorites as Binnie Barnes, Gloria Stuart, Pauline Moore, Joseph Schildkraut, John Carradine, Lionel Atwill, Miles Mander, Douglas Dumbrille and John King.
